Notes: This cemetery is in poor condition; all the stones are off of their original locations. It appears that they have been pushed down by a piece of equipment and arranged in a pile. I think this cemetery is in great danger of disappearing in the near future. The stones are on a hill which is visible from the contour lines on the topographical maps of the area. Located in the middle of a field near the home site of William M. Costen as shown on the 1877 Atlas of the Eastern Shore, Dublin Dist. (center of the map)
